

HIGHER FAILSWORTH PRIMARY SCHOOL

Meet the Governors – Caroline Black

Hi, my name is Caroline Black and I have been a Parent Governor at Higher Failsworth Primary School for two years.

My daughter is currently in Year 5 and my son, who has a severe hearing impairment left in July 2019 and is now attending Co op Academy. He had an amazing journey during his time at HFPS and the help and support both he and myself received during his time there was amazing.

I became a Parent Governor after initially joining the PTA and supporting the school through going on many and varied trips with various year groups. These experiences gave me more and more admiration for the staff at the school.

Being a Parent Governor has given me more insight into the amazing work being done at the school that we don't normally see.

Parent Governors have an important role to play on the governing body as they have a different perspective to other governors.

My favourite part of being a governor is going into school on governor days and helping on school trips.

I work part time as a Civil Servant (not an exciting one) and I also volunteer as a leader at a local Brownies Unit and complete the admin for my son's football team. I have previously volunteered at the local Children's Centre and at a Beaver group.

I do think volunteering is good for the soul, no matter how much or how little time you give.
